BAY STATE CRITICISM.

(From the Boston Traveler.) WIDER MARKET ASSURED

Merchants' Week Brings Many Shoppers to Burlington.

One Man Traded $100 Worth—Over 6,000 Miles in Fares Returned—To-morrow Evening Ladies' Night at Auto Show.

Burlington dealers continue to express satisfaction with the trade that has come in during the first half of this week. It has fulfilled their expectations, and they feel that the first step toward building up a wider market has been successfully taken.

The auto show is clearly the most successful feature of Merchants' Week, and it now appears to be an established annual event. To-day 1,200 people are expected to pay it a visit, and the attendance to-morrow evening, which is ladies' night, will undoubtedly pack the big hall.

The business section presents a holiday appearance. By day the eye meets everywhere with decorations of flags and bunting, arranged with uncommon attractiveness. At night the illumination of shop windows and electric signs reveals displays of unusual interest, and light the streets as brightly as in the Christmas season.

The cash paid to out-of-town shoppers up to the close of business yesterday represents a total mileage large enough to take a man across the continent from New York to San Francisco and return. The exact amount is $349.5 miles.

Some large purchases are being made by the visitors to Burlington. Individual shoppers have brought in coupons amounting to as much as $50 and $60, but the record was made yesterday by a man who brought to Secretary Hopkins a big handful of certificates aggregating $100. Mr. Hopkins is waiting with interest to see who will break this record, and bring in a total of $100 in coupons.

HUNDREDS WATCHED WORK

Knights of Columbus Confer Third Degree on Class of 40—Banquet Follows.

Seven hundred Knights of Columbus of the third degree from all parts of the State gathered in St. Mary's hall last evening to witness the conferring of the degree on a class of 40 candidates. The degree work was followed by a banquet in Warren's dining room. The largest delegations were from this city, Montpelier, Barre, St. Albans and Rutland, but many other places were represented.

A special train leaving 7:30 knights came up from Rutland last evening and left on the return trip early this morning. The Marble City was, however, represented to a much larger extent than that as many came to the city on earlier trains. From Montpelier and Barre about 50 came down last evening and St. Albans sent better than 50. This made in all the largest gathering of the knights ever held in this city.

The degree work was in charge of Past Supreme Knight Thomas W. Moloney of Rutland and he was assisted by Captain of the Grand John Smith of St. Albans. In addition to him there were District Deputy D. T. Donnelly of Montpelier, who in turn was assisted by Frank Brown of the same place and District Deputy Joseph Cronan of Rutland.

At the banquet, Grand Knight M. G. Leary was the toastmaster and a number of knights responded to toasts. Among these were the Revs. W. J. O'Sullivan of Montpelier and R. J. Cahill of Enosburgh Falls. Judge Patrick Tierney of Plattsburgh, James Cosgrove of St. Johnsbury and D. T. Donnelly of Montpelier. Among others who were present were the Revs. Arthur Griffin of Montpelier and R. Devoey of St. Albans Bay.

HONORE DE BALSAC.

French Writer Subject of Last University Extension Course Lecture.

Prof. A. B. Myrick delivered the last of a very successful series of lectures in the university extension course in Williams College hall last evening. The subject of the lecture was the great French novelist, Honore de Balsac, with reference to his place in literature, the significance of his work and the character of the writer as portrayed in his works.

Honore de Balsac, said the speaker, was a man of remarkable capacity, he was a genius in the immense fun of his knowledge. This noted French writer is to be compared with Napoleon, he was as great a master of intellectual material as Napoleon was of the science of war. Balsac possessed his formidable power by dint of hard work, his working day having in it 18 hours. He has been characterized as a miracle of energy, a man of inexhaustible physical strength.

Prof. Myrick quoted several times from Balsac's novel, "The Wild Ass's Skin" to illustrate the descriptive ability of the writer and his character. Balsac's own struggle against poverty is incorporated in many of his productions. Balsac somewhat said of himself: "I have placed my heart in the brain which never fails and which survives all." And this was literally true in his case. Reason and will were the dominating factors in the great realist's life.

The lecturer dwelt upon the fact that the novels composing the series of the Human Comedy constitute a sort of reconstruction of the society of Paris and the provinces upon the basis of a scientific classification in some sort resembling that of the animal kingdom. The novels composing the series then will be, after all, a sort of corpus of social natural history. As a necessary consequence of his scientific program, Balsac was shown to be the one great realist of French fiction and the ancestor of the modern French realists.

IN MEXICO.

Peasants! peasants! high and low, What did you find in Mexico?— Nothing novel in act or word, More than I ever have seen or heard; Men are just as they long have been; Saints or sinners—whichever will win; Brother with brother and race with race, Bartering blood for power and place, Strong men dying by night and day, So the living could have their way, Thus it has been and is ever so, Where the pleasures and passions grow.

DREAMER—DIVER IN LONG-AGO.

What did you find in Mexico?— Shades of the Toltecs flung there— Cortes striking with greedy fangs— Guatemalco in torture-pangs; Star-forged greeting in bloody fray, Cerro Gordo and Monterey, Small Napoleon's empire-boast, Maximilian's unhappy ghost, All seemed wandering here and fro, There in the hills of Mexico.

Patriot seeking the sunrise-glond, What did you love in Mexico?— Heroes teeming with bravery grand, Fighting for God and father-land, Still in the faith of duty strong, Whether their cause were right or wrong, Still did they suffer, toil and fight, Still did they seek with brain and might.

Something perhaps they could not see, But that they hoped was yet to be, Thus with their blood there yet may flow, Future blessings for Mexico!— Will Carleton, in Every Where.
